

“Earla Van Gogh”

A kind Port Charlotte citizen called in to our department stating she had confined an injured cat that needed care. This is a photo on the day she was picked up 12/5/16. Her ear was bloody and mangled.

Earla was transported to Charlotte Animal Hospital where she was examined. The DVM recommended ear/pinna removal surgery and was unable to determine if the ear damage was from physical injury or possible Melanoma cancer. Either way, the ear removal would need to be done. The photo was taken shortly after her surgery.

Case #16-35092

Treatment: Ear/Pinna removal surgery

Cost: $379.37

Outcome: As of 7/28/17 at Animal Welfare League, available for adoption

#0061

This dog was picked up as a stray in Port Charlotte. He was underweight and his tail was severely infected. The infection was so severe, it went into the bone, and his tail needed to be amputated.

Case #17-35446

Treatment: Tail Amputation

Cost: $437.91

Outcome: Adopted

“Chloe”

CHLOE GETS A SECOND CHANCE:

Teamwork was the key to Chloe’s recovery after being hit by a car in Port Charlotte. Animal Control Officer Truran picked up this small terrier mix on Winchester Blvd and rushed her to a veterinarian where she was stabilized and then sent to foster care on pain medication. No “lost report” was filed on her. A decision had to be made about her future.

Chloe needed expensive surgery; metal plates to stabilize her broken pelvis performed by a specialist.

Specialized Vet Services in Fort Myers was willing to do the surgery at a discounted rate. The $2000 fee was raised through donations from the Charlotte County Animal Care Trust Fund, The Animal Welfare League Emergency Medical Fund, and donations from animal lovers in the community.

Case #17-36499

Treatment: Pelvic surgery

Cost: $2,000 ($800 from Trust Fund, $800 from AWL, $400 private citizens donations specifically for Chloe)

Outcome: Adopted through AWL on 7/20/2017

“Beau”

Beau was called in by a good samaritan that saw him tied to a tree. Beau had been hit by a car and never had the vet care he needed. His leg injuries were several weeks old and beyond repair, so he needed to have the leg amputated.

Case #17-36934

Treatment: Leg Amputation

Cost: $514.12

Outcome: Adopted
